GERMAN TROOPS MOVING INTO ROMANIA

Cincinnati Favored As Walters, Rowe Take Hill

EXPERTS CLAIM SEVENTH GAME TO BE PLAYED

Buck Newsom May Return To Face Derringer If Play Is Extended

PITCHERS OVERMATCHED

Neither Manager Sending Stars Against Strong Men On Foe's Staff

By Sid Mercer
CINCINNATI, Oct. 7—They're bound to have a ball game in this "world's seriousness" yet because the managers will eventually be compelled to put two good pitchers in there against each other.

Probably that won't happen until tomorrow, for the best minds think Bucky Walters will take Schoolboy Rowe again today as the scene shifts back to Crosley Field.

If it goes that way you may see Buck Newsom in there for the pay-off game against Paul Derringer. Of course, the Tigers can save "Bo-Bo" that extra effort by winning today. Besides a Newsom with only one day of rest they have Johnny Gorsica, who turned in the slickest relief job of the series.

Derringer and Newsom have turned in two best pitched games. The Cincinnati ace, however, did not match the crackling effectiveness of Newsom yesterday. Buck allowed no runs and only three hits and donated only two bases on balls. Derringer pitched himself a five-hitter, but walked five and gave up two runs.

Walters also grabbed himself a three-hitter — probably a better job than Newsom's for he was up against better hitters — but he walked four and was tagged for three runs.

Pitchers Overmatched

Bill McKechnie and Del Baker have done a great job of over-matching their pitchers in the last three games. In the first two it was Derringer and Newsom, then Walters and Rowe. Since then both managers have been duking ace opponents by throwing in their trash.

That was the way Mickey Cochran also played it in 1934 and he wound up on the short end of a seven-game series. It looks now as if McKechnie may come to grief. There are two strikes on him now. He might have made it close yesterday by yanking Junior Thompson after Greenberg delivered the crusher.

Army Shows Dignitaries Strength Of Its Forces

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. Oct. 7—America's potentialities to build up an air fleet of 50,000 planes and a panzer army of 2,000,000 men were being unfolded in graphic, panoramic style today before the 20 Latin-American military chieftains touring the United States.

Shown America's West Point of the air yesterday, the Latins, representing nine central and South American countries, were taken on a tour today of Ft. Sam Houston and Camp Bullis, to be greeted by a review of the new triangular (motorized) second division of 12,000 men.

At Camp Bullis, a battalion of infantry was scheduled to put on a sham attack. Now six days out of Washington, the tour was beginning to give to the visiting military chieftains an idea of the immenseness of the army's share of the National Defense program.

On its part, the army was making no pretense of showing the Latins something it does not possess, but rather how the air fleet and a blitzkrieg infantry was being built up. At every post visited, Langley Field, Va., Ft. Benning, Ga., Barksdale, La., and here in the San Antonio area there was terrific building going on, construction of barracks, hangars and tent camps.

Called strike two. Ball two. Ball three. He doubled off the left field wall. M. McCormick up. Swinging strike one. He sacrificed, Rowe to York, sending Werber to third. Goodman up. He banded a single to York's right, Werber scoring and Goodman being safe at first. No play was made at first base, Rowe failing to cover when York took the bounder. F. McCormick up. Ball one. Ball two. Swinging strike one. He lined a single to left field, sending Goodman to second. Ripple up. He fouled a long drive to right field. He singled to right field scoring Goodman and sending F. McCormick to third base. Rowe was replaced by Johnny Corsica. Wilson up. Called strike one. He popped a foul to the right of the plate trying the squeeze play. The ball was out of the reach of any fielder. Swinging strike three. Joost up. Ball one. Ball two. He banded to Higgins whose peg to Gehring forced Ripple at second base. Two runs, four hits.

SECOND INNING

DETROIT: Greenberg up. Called strike one. Foul, strike two. Ball one. Swinging strike three. York up. Called strike one. He drove a long fly to Goodman in front of the right field fence. Campbell up. Ball one. Foul, strike one. Ball two. Ball three. Swinging strike two. Ball four. Higgins up. Ball one. He lined a single to left field, Campbell stopping at second base. Tebbetts up. Foul, strike one. Called strike two. He banded out, Walters to F. McCormick. No runs, one hit.

CINCINNATI: Myers up. Ball one. Ball two. Ball three. Called strike one. Called strike two. Swinging strike three. Walters up. Swinging strike one. Strike two, Walters missing an attempted bunt. Ball one. He banded out, Gorsica to York. Werber up. Ball one. Ball two. Ball three. Swinging strike one. He lined a single through the center of the infield, his tenth safety of the series. M. McCormick up. Ball one. He banded out, Tebbetts to York, on a close play. The ball hit in front of the plate and bounded high. No runs, one hit.

THIRD INNING

DETROIT: Gorsica up. Called strike one. He swung and missed, strike two. He flied to M. McCormick in deep center field. Bartel up. Ball one. Ball two. Ball three. Called strike one. Called strike two. He hit safely past third base for a hit base hit.

CINCINNATI: Goodman up. Called strike one. Called strike two. He flied to McCoskey in deep center field. F. McCormick up. He hit a foul fly to Higgins down the left field line. Ripple up. Ball one. Ball two. Ball three. Ball four. Wilson up. He flied to Campbell who made a diving catch in right field. No runs, no hits.

AIR RAID SIRENS SOUND AS NAZIS SWEEP ENGLAND

Four Warnings Heard Over London During Morning; Combats Reported

REICH DISTRICTS BOMBED

RAF Claims Production Of Planes Hit; Many Ports Left In Ruins

LONDON, Oct. 7 — Germany's daylight raids on Britain flared into a series of terrific air battles today as four air raid alarms sounded in London and—according to unofficial estimates—ten German planes were shot down.

The fourth alarm of the day in London sounded early in the afternoon as sky fighting spread inland from the coast and a German bomber crashed at Bexley. Latest reports indicated at least nine other Nazi bombers and fighters had been brought down.

No activity over the London area was reported immediately following the newest warning, the city's 17th since war began. During the third alarm of the day, however, 12 bombs fell on a southwestern London residential district, demolishing several homes. It was feared several persons were killed.

RAF fighters and anti-aircraft batteries went into action and several fierce air combats occurred at altitudes of 20,000 feet. Several formations and a number of lone raiders were driven off by anti-aircraft batteries.

A convent in Kent was bombed and nuns at prayer there narrowly escaped death. An adjoining convalescent home also was damaged. As the morning progressed a series of large battle was reported over Kent. Authorities said the RAF was combating another Nazi "daytime blitz effort" launched on a reduced scale.

Formation Broken

One German Messerschmitt was seen diving out of control near the coast from a large German aerial formation, which was reported driven off in disorder.

During the third alarm in London, witnesses said, a dozen German bombers swept over the capital, dropping their cargoes under harrying anti-aircraft fire which turned out formation away. A second formation, so high it was almost out of sight, crossed over the city without dropping bombs.

The daylight attacks followed the first quiet night Londoners have experienced in more than a month. They also followed new British air attacks against German military targets and an announcement of a British "master plan" of air bombardment which was said (Continued on Page Two)

ROMANCE ENDS AS GAS FUMES KILL PRINCIPALS

NEW YORK, Oct. 7—The illicit romance between an attractive young school teacher, estranged from her husband, and a married man was ended today in double suicide.

After weighing the question of life and death over the week end, the couple, Mrs. Dorothy Grant Gunn, 32, and Frederick Hornby, 32, turned on the gas jets in a kitchen range of Hornby's bungalow in suburban West Babylon and died in each other's arms.

They faced their momentous decision late Saturday night when Mrs. Hornby came home to up-braid her husband for his friendship with Mrs. Gunn. Mrs. Hornby, a six-year-old son and warned her husband that Mrs. Gunn was separated from her own husband, Donald Gunn, of Emporium, Pa. (Continued on Page Two)

Mrs. Emma Wright, Familiar Figure In Circleville, Dies; Rites Tuesday

Mrs. Emma R. Wright, 75, a lifelong resident of Pickaway County and a familiar figure in Circleville for the last several years, died Saturday at 6:40 p. m. in Chillicothe City Hospital where she was taken September 24 suffering from injuries received in a bus-automobile accident. Uremic poisoning that set in last Thursday caused death, Mr. Wright having suffered from shock and a painful ankle injury.

She had lived in Ashville for many years, but had removed to Circleville several years ago, making her home with Mrs. A. N. Weigand, 114 Watt Street. She was the widow of William M. Wright, who died May 3, 1932.

The funeral will be Tuesday at 2:30 p. m. at the Albaugh Co. chapel, the Rev. H. H. Wilbur of New Lexington officiating, with burial in Forest Cemetery. Pall bearers will include Oscar W. Willis, Benjamin Hedges, Everett Seeds, Guy Sark and Clarence Squire of Ashville, and James Ames of Circleville. The body will remain at the Albaugh Chapel where friends may call.

Mrs. Wright, the last of the family of Edward and Barbara Everett Soper, had spent much of her time riding buses between Circleville and other Central Ohio cities, and it was during one of these frequent rides that she was injured. She was enroute to Chillicothe on a Valley Public Service bus and was riding in the front seat of the bus, its lone passenger, when it and the automobile of Jasper M. Boecher, 55, of Hallsville, collided. Raymond Goodman, driver of the bus, said the accident happened when Boecher's car skidded on wet pavement.

Mrs. Wright suffered a dislocated left ankle and numerous bruises. She had been in good spirits in the Chillicothe hospital, and had informed nurses and physicians that she would be able to return to Circleville in time to attend the Pumpkin Show. But poisoning set in and death came Saturday evening.

JAPS DECLARE IRON EMBARGO "HOSTILE MOVE"

TOKYO, Oct. 7—As so defined by Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoye, the United States embargo on export of scrap iron to Japan is a "hostile act" a Japanese foreign office spokesman declared today.

The statement was made in answer to a question as to whether there was any change in Japanese-American relations. The situation has not changed, the spokesman said, since the United States "has not made any concrete proposals" to Japan.

Meanwhile, Prince Konoye addressed a meeting of prefecture governors to outline the government's home policies and Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka spoke of foreign affairs.

Konoye asked the governors to aid in preparing the Japanese people "step by step" to enable the government to overcome all future difficulties.

The premier said that he and his government colleagues, in accordance with an imperial pre-script, were doing all in their power "to place the country in the highest possible state of defense."

Matsuoka explained that Japan's adherence to the tripartite pact did not mean her participation in the European war.

Atlanta School Opens; Fear Of Epidemic Ends

Perry Township school at Atlanta, closed last week by the board of education after an infantile paralysis case had broken out in the school, reopened Monday.

Leslie Canup, superintendent of the school, reported that fear of an epidemic in the community had apparently subsided and that only four children were absent from classes.

Meanwhile, Elaine Stoker, 12-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Stoker, victim of the disease, was reported to be improving at home under doctor's care, paralysis having settled in the girl's left leg.

Those in charge of Atlanta's Anafair were making final preparations to open the fair Tuesday evening with all events to be held as scheduled. Superintendent Canup said the school may close one afternoon for the event.

The county's other quarantine case of infantile paralysis, Fay Isaac, seventh grade Corvin Street school girl, is also reported to be in good condition. Dr. A. D. Blackburn, county health commissioner, said Monday that no other cases had been reported.

An infantile paralysis quarantine has been placed on the home of Merle Route, Kingston, where his son, Curtis, 12, is suffering from the affliction. Dr. R. E. Bower, Ross County health commissioner, visited the home Saturday afternoon at the request of the family physician. He diagnosed the youth's illness as paralysis.

16 OHIO LIVES LOST IN HEAVY MOTOR TRAFFIC

As highways were crowded with football fans and nature lovers taking advantage of perfect October weather, traffic accidents claimed at least 16 lives in Ohio over the week-end, a survey showed today.

Judge Earl F. Ferguson, 63, of the Van Wert County Common Pleas court, and his wife were killed when their car figured in a collision with that of George Herman, of Springfield, past state president of the Eagles, at an intersection 12 miles southeast of Van Wert on State route 116. NEW CRISIS DEVELOPS

Budapest Charge Minority Being Mistreated; 38 Killed In Camp

BERLIN, Oct. 7—Authoritative German sources admitted today that German troops are en route to Romania in accordance with provisions of the Reich's guarantee to the Bucharest government of Premier General Ion Antonescu.

This admission provided the first real indication of the trend and import of the momentous decisions reached by Chancellor Hitler and Premier Mussolini at the recent Brenner Pass conference.

Simultaneously the Romanian legation in Berlin announced that Italian troops will be sent to Bucharest "to assist in training the army."

Motive for the sudden dispatch of Reich troops to Romania was not revealed, but authentic quarters implied that the Axis powers aim to forestall any British "surprise" anywhere in the Black Sea region.

Significant allusion was made to Baku, the rich and strategic oil producing city in Transcaucasia on the Caspian Sea.

German quarters recalled a diplomatic incident which occurred last summer when a purported letter to the Paris government from the French ambassador to Ankara allegedly uncovered an Anglo-French plan to set fire to the Baku oil fields.

This plan, as developed in the German expose, was to be carried out by planes flying over Turkey and bombing the oil fields. Turkey was pictured as implicated in the plot.

(Editor's Note: Baku and Transcaucasia are in the U. S. S. R. If German troops obtained in control of Romania, they would then be in position for a drive to the East, perhaps through Turkey, which if successful would put them in position to dominate the Black and (Continued on Page Two)

NAZIS IN ACTION TO HIT POSSIBLE COUP BY BRITAIN

Not Against Russia German quarters insisted that whatever developments occur in the southeast are not directed against Russia. But whether a Russo-German deal is in the making or has been made regarding Baku is not clear.

The position of Turkey, whose relations with the Reich are not yet considered satisfactory by Berlin, is now believed certain to become questionable. There were predictions that Turkey may find herself faced with a crisis in the near future.

In addition, authentic German quarters indicated, the axis powers probably will move in "blitz" fashion in "several places during the next few weeks" as a result of the Brenner Pass rendezvous between Hitler and Mussolini.

In connection with the movement of German troops into Romania, these same circles revealed that a German general went to Romania some time ago to prepare the ground.

It was assumed that a large German military staff also is in Romania, so that little time will be lost in carrying out the present project. Commenting on this development, German sources said:

"England should know that we never jest. When we give a guarantee we mean it in all seriousness. We don't just give a paper promise."

Details as to the actual number of troops going to Romania were not revealed, but observers said that by sending forces to the southeast Germany might cooperate with Italy in forming a military "pincer" against the British in the Mediterranean region.

BUDAPEST, Oct. 7.—A new Romanian-Hungarian crisis developed today as Budapest newspapers charged Romania with wholesale mistreatment of the remaining Hungarian minority.

The press charges, obviously government-inspired, were made in the wake of reports of Romanian atrocities, including the alleged slaying of 38 Hungarian inmates of a concentration camp.

The semi-official Hungarian newspaper Pester Lloyd ominously warned that the Romanian actions would have "serious consequences."

It was believed that the anti-Romanian press blasts might overshadow a Hungarian demand that the rest of Transylvania be ceded to Hungary as a means of "protecting" the Hungarian minority.

Romania ceded Southern Transylvania to Hungary last month after Germany and Italy dictated a settlement of Romanian-Hungarian problems.

In view of Romania's economic position as an important source of war-essential materials, diplomatic circles do not believe the axis will let the present Romanian-Hungarian friction cause an explosion in the Balkans.

The alleged slaying of the 38 Hungarians took place at a concentration camp at Vitseva when Romanian authorities suppressed a mutiny by Hungarian prisoners who rebelled against poor and insufficient food, it was charged.

The Hungarian press further reported that two Hungarian miners were shot and killed by Romanian police at the Lupeny coal mines and their bodies publicly hanged to impress other Hungarians.

The Pester Lloyd charged that three Hungarian nuns were killed and their bodies mutilated by a Romanian mob at Mehadia.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—Lacking immediate confirmation, London today cabled Bucharest for information regarding reports that German troops have entered Romania.

But informed British sources said they considered such a German move extremely likely, and that it had been expected sooner or later.

London quarters added that alleged protection of Romania's oil fields probably would serve as an excuse to cover a slowly growing pincer movement to the East by the axis.

It was felt that Italy will launch a new Egyptian drive when enough German forces are concentrated in Romania to sweep toward Turkey, either across Greece

Working Agreement Mapped
In Regard To Operation
In Far East

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7 — A "Washington-London axis" to coordinate policy and protect the interests of America and Britain in the Far East is being forged under the heat of Japan's expansionist policies, diplomatic observers believed today.

The eastern role of this "axis," it was said, eventually may extend to Moscow.

The use of the current term "axis" does not imply an alliance or written guarantees of the type subscribed to last week by Berlin, Rome and Tokyo. Such an agreement would be contrary to America's traditional policy of avoiding "entangling alliances."

But, for all practical purposes, the working agreement envisioned in the series of conversations that have been carried on for a month by Secretary of State Cordell Hull and Lord Lothian, the British ambassador (the last such talk was held Saturday) is expected to be as effective in operation as a formal agreement.

Both Hull and Lothian have been tight-lipped about their conversations, but informed sources understand the talks have dealt with these two primary topics:

1. Measures of economic co-operation to weaken Japan's war machine in case Tokyo continues its "march through Asia." Together, America and London control all the major sources of supply of such vital military sinews as iron, oil and rubber.

2. Measures of military and naval cooperation in the event of a Far Eastern emergency. It is understood that this would include use by the U. S. fleet of the great British base at Singapore.

ITALY OUSTS WRITER AFTER ARTICLE ON F. D.

ROME, Oct. 7 — Herbert L. Matthews, Rome correspondent of the New York Times, was expelled from Italy today.

(Editor's Note: Matthews' expulsion followed publication by the New York Times of a dispatch from the correspondent stating that the Rome-Berlin axis is "out to defeat" President Roosevelt.)

(In a subsequent press conference, the President read two paragraphs of the dispatch to correspondents at Washington.)

Previously, Virginia Gayda, Fascist editor, charged that President Roosevelt is using the European war to push his election campaign.

Gayda claimed he had reason to believe that an article published in New York, stating that an Italian paper declared Italy was working for Roosevelt's defeat, was manufactured deliberately by Roosevelt's campaign committee. Gayda demanded that that Italian paper which printed the alleged statement be specified.

GEORGE G. WHITEHEAD, G. O. P. PUBLICIST, DIES

COLUMBUS, Oct. 7—The Ohio Republican party today mourned the loss of George G. Whitehead, 52, for the last two years the party's public relations adviser and editor of the Ohio Republican News, who dropped dead of a heart attack while on a family reunion near Delaware.

During his varied career, Whitehead served as publicist for such notables as Clarence Darrow, Bing Crosby, Clark Gable and Alice Nielsen, as well as press agenting the Century of Progress at Chicago and the San Diego, Dallas and Cleveland expositions.

He was born in Hardin County, Kentucky, but lived most of his life in Cincinnati. Graduated from Ohio Wesleyan University in 1909, he has served on the university's board of directors for the last six years.

KENNEDY WANTS RELIEF SHIP SENT TO ENGLAND

LONDON, Oct. 7—U. S. Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy has requested Washington to dispatch another ship to evacuate Americans from England, according to reports current in London today.

Kennedy also was said to have insisted that several members of the American embassy and consulate staffs be granted expense-paid leaves of absence to recuperate from the strain of war-time service in London.

Illinois Mourns Death Of Gov. Henry Horner

CHICAGO, Oct. 7—Arrangements were virtually completed today for a public military funeral for Gov. Henry Horner of Illinois, who died early Sunday of heart disease and high blood pressure.

The illness had kept the 61-year-old chief executive a semi-invalid for almost two years. His condition took a sudden turn for the worse Friday night and he entered a coma from which he never recovered. Death came at 2:30 a. m. Sunday in the summer home overlooking Lake Michigan at Winnetka, a suburb of Chicago, which the governor had leased while attempting to regain his health.

Cox to Speak

ROBERT S. Cox, Democratic candidate for governor of Ohio, will speak Wednesday evening, October 9, at 8 o'clock at the Pickaway Township school. The address is one of a series of talks arranged throughout the county by the Democratic committees.

ASHVILLE

By S. D. Fridley
Ashville, Phone 79

Rev. H. D. Fudge in the Lutheran, parsonage Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock united in marriage Miss Helen Boyer, daughter of Claude and Mrs. Boyer, and Mr. George Cummins, son of Herbert and Mrs. Cummins. They were attended by Miss Betty Hinkle and Mr. Homer Patrick. The newly wed will temporarily make their home with the bride's parents. The new Mrs. Cummins is a linotype operator at the local printing plant and will continue her work there. Mr. Cummins has employment at the Cloud grocery and meat store.

At the annual meeting of the Ashville Farmers' Protective Association at the K. of P. hall, the attendance was above the 100 mark. This was the big get-together meeting of the year when the set program and speech making was a minus factor with the whole time being taken up in fried fish eating, the smokes and visiting. Too, the election of officers for the coming year. They are Archie Peters, president; S. M. Smith, vice president; Charles Cromley, secretary; E. W. Seeds, treasurer; Ludwig Osterle, captain.

Cecil Noecker of down on 23, brought to the local Ashville Grain Elevator, Saturday afternoon, a near 75 bushel load of new corn, the first of the season received here. The moisture content was about 30 percent. The price paid is 54 cents based upon a 20 percent moisture content, so Manager Borrer of the grain elevator, told us.

And in the corn line, D. E. Ruff told us Saturday that he has picked and in the crib, 1300 bushels of new corn of an early variety and feels sure of its keeping qualities. And too, that his son, D. E. Ruff, Jr. is making a good start in the commercial cattle feeding business, having purchased recently 26 head of the White-Face breed from a Cuyrus dealer. The average weight of the herd was 513 pounds Dakota raised. These cattle will be fed with the idea of showing them in the fat cattle class and entered in the auction sale at the 1941 Ohio State Fair, Mr. Ruff told us.

The annual meeting of the Primitive Baptist congregation was held Sunday at the church near East Ringgold with morning and afternoon services and basket dinner. Elder J. S. Bibler of Newark was in charge.

Charles and Mrs. Holcomb residing Northwest of Ashville on the Charles Cromley farm have been there in that one same dwelling for the past thirty-nine years and both Mr. Cromley and the Holcombs agree that it would not be the right thing at all to even think of leaving that dear old spot to them, now. And we all of us join them in that thought. They have been married 51 years.

Along with hundreds of others election straw votes all over the nation, a recent poll at the local high school showed Mr. Roosevelt

F. D. R. TOURING ARMY ARSENAL

Watervliet Plant, Making
Cannon For Army, Gets Attention

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Oct. 7 — President Roosevelt ordered his special train today for a swing through upstate counties of New York which may determine whether the third term will win the Empire State's 47 electoral votes next month.

In a "non-political" tour, Mr. Roosevelt late today will visit Albany, Watervliet, Troy, Mechanicville, Schuylerville and Saratoga Springs. Both the President and his White House aides said the trip had no political implications, but the President's upstate tour coincided with the bid of his Republican opponent, Wendell L. Willkie, for support of voters in the down-state New York city area.

Mr. Roosevelt's trip will center around an inspection of the army's arsenal at Watervliet, where in the 14 months ending September 30, more than 1,000 cannon were turned out for the rapidly accelerating national defense program.

The swing, however, emphasized historic implications of previous defense efforts of the country. The President will look over the Saratoga battleground where in October, 1777, an army of Revolutionary troops under command of Gen. Horatio Gates and Gen. Benedict Arnold defeated the British regulars under Gen. John Burgoyne and accepted their surrender.

Officials at the temporary White House scheduled no speeches for the President during the quick trip through upstate counties. He will make no effort to capture votes, centering his attention on reports from military officials on progress of the speed-up at the arsenal—where three shifts now are working around the clock to provide artillery for defense forces.

In 1936, Horner fought the Kelly-Nash political machine, won renomination over Dr. Herman N. Bundsen of Chicago, and was reelected. In 1938, he campaigned vigorously for a ticket headed by Scott Lucas, who was elected to the U. S. senate. In the 1938 primary, Horner still was a foe of the Kelly-Nash forces, but these differences were patched up before the 1938 election.

It was shortly after the 1938 campaign that Horner's health broke.

UPHOLSTERING IN AUTO IS DAMAGED BY FLAMES

A fire inside the automobile of Loring Creager, 381 East Franklin Street, burned much of the back seat upholstery early Sunday before firemen were summoned to extinguish the flames. The fire was first noticed by a paper boy as he passed by the Creager residence at 6:15 a. m.

Fire Chief Talmer Wise, who estimated the damage at $25, said he believed the fire had started from a lighted cigarette, discarded when the car was parked in front of the Creager residence late Saturday night.

Ralph Berry, erstwhile basketball luminary of our high school, has gone and made the leap. He is now a married man and it is reported that close, yes, very close friends are receiving Tiona cigars in honor of the occasion. Good luck to you and your Ralph! The new Mrs. Berry was the former Miss Evelyn Feazell of Columbus.

The crowd which usually jams the down-town section on Thursday nights was missing this week—everybody it seems, attended the big trial at the council chambers.

There's plenty of work to be done on the farms these days and the absentees at the school vouch for this fact. Many boys are remaining away from their classes for short periods to help out with the harvesting work.

Grand Plans Stage Show

The glory of the legitimate stage is not dimmed, that is so far as the Grand Theatre is concerned. Wednesday and Thursday of each week during the winter season will bring to the playhouse the Kinsey Players on the stage.

These players consist of an able cast of thespians who have played all over Ohio enacting rural dramas and comedies.

During the last six weeks the company has been playing in its own tent theatre in Mansfield, and the management of the company displayed proudly a letter from the mayor of Mansfield in which he commended the Kinsey Troupe for its excellent, clean entertainment.

In addition to the one hour and a half stage play, the Grand will present a first run photo play and short subjects as well as the latest newsreel.

The first stage show to be presented by the Kinsey Players this Wednesday and Thursday will be the screamingly funny rural drama, "That Boy Toby," with George O'Brien as the lovable red head. Many have heard him in person over the air on stations WSTC and WSB, Atlanta.

The cast consists of about 25 persons all exceedingly talented in portraying the various characters. Stage shows will be given precisely at 3:30 and 8:30 twice each day.

Occupying the screen in addition to the stage show will be the latest Baby Sandy photoplay, "Sandy is a Lady" with Tom Brown and Baby Sandy.

LANCASTER, Oct. 7 — Peace officers throughout the state today were asked to be on the lookout for six boys who walked away from the Boys' Industrial School near Lancaster.

LONDON AND CARTHAGE

THE great London river front, with its miles and miles of docks and warehouses, is taking heavy punishment these days. It is a vital and picturesque region. An American newspaper man describes it as he saw it in a couple of days' sauntering before the war.

"In and around Mincing Lane," he recalls, "so small that only the larger London maps show it, is a rabbit warren of offices where the Londoners deal in sugar, cocoa, spices, rice, shellac, rubber, tea, drugs, copra, ivory, hides, skins and quicksilver. Close by are the grain markets and the ocean shipping offices. To the west lies the wool market—which must have suffered severe losses to its stocks in the St. Catherine's docks. Between the financial district and the Thames are the iron and steel offices, and west of them the fur district. And so on. More than any other city in the world, London is a collection of well-defined trade areas in close proximity."

Today the Nazi raiders have probably spread almost as much destruction in that vital area as the ancient Romans did when they destroyed Carthage, which lay across the Mediterranean as London lies across the North Sea from Germany.

The two cases may be more alike in other ways than they seem at first thought. Is not Nazi Germany trying to destroy Britain, the greatest of modern trading nations, largely because it is a strong competitor?

If so, the Nazis may learn what the Romans learned to their cost—that in destroying competition they lost their own best customers and were worse off than before. Some historians trace the downfall of Rome to that barbarous and suicidal war.

UNITY

"BEFORE the Blitzkrieg," an Englishman wrote recently to an American friend, "we were getting flabby. Shorter work hours, longer holidays, higher wages, higher dividends—that was our heart's desire. We lacked moral zeal about anything. Now we know what sacrifice really means. Now we are a chastened and a united people."

It sounds like a description of America in recent years and months—all but that last two sentences. We ourselves have not yet sacrificed nor become chastened and united, although the progress is being made. And whether we can really be united and regenerated without chastening inflicted first on ourselves, and then by others, is not yet clear.

The important thing right now is fo.

WORLD AT A GLANCE —By— Charles P. Stewart

LITTLE as Uncle Sam and Russia have in common in other respects, the state department tacitly admits that we and the Soviet regime are jointly threatened by the recently concluded German-Italian-Japanese pact. Departmental spokesmen won't say so officially; they're too much afraid of hinting at anything like American co-operation, to the slightest extent, with Communistic Moscow. Personally and confidentially, however, they generally agree that the European Axis and the Japs have classified the democracies and Russia in the same bunch.

When I say the democracies, I mean the United States and Britain. France would be included also, if it hadn't already been licked and absorbed by the totalitarian Axis.

Well, Britain's at war with Germany now. It virtually is at war with Japan, too, now that the triple alliance has been signed up. And the United States has been warned to keep its hands off, or the triple group will hop on us—as well as it's able to do so. We weren't specifically named, but the implication was plain enough. The German-Italian-Japanese triangle is doing its best to convince Russia that it isn't hostile to the Soviet aggression, but everybody

SOVIET-U. S. RAPPROCHEMENT

WASHINGTON—The new alliance between Japan, Germany and Italy has revived discussions between the United States and Russia regarding a common policy in the Far East.

Conversations to this end had been taking place all summer, but had made little progress. The Russians at that time were playing the British off against the Nazis, and figured they would jump to whichever side seemed to be coming out on top.

However, the Japanese alliance came as a dose of very cold water in Moscow's face. Foreign Minister Molotov apparently did not know for sure that the alliance was to be signed until about 24 hours in advance. And despite reassuring statements that Russia was being taken care of, there have been no actual commitments by the Axis powers to the Soviet.

Of all the powers ringing the great land mass of Russia and Siberia, probably the oldest traditional enemy is Japan. The Russians have got along fairly well with Germany since the last war, have had their ups and downs with Great Britain, but with Japan there is a long and unmitigated enmity. Therefore, for Japan to become a part of the Axis is a bitter pill for the Soviet to swallow.

It is reported that Russia is asking that part of Manchukuo be given her as a sop for the new alliance. It is also reported that the Axis might give Russia the strait of the Bosphorus plus a sphere of influence through Iran to the Persian Gulf. But all these are merely reports.

Only tangible fact known here is that the Russians now seem to be a little more amenable to reason, and there may be a common understanding worked out between the United States and Moscow regarding Japan. So far the State Department is letting Russia have all the aviation gasoline it wants and also the machine tools previously ordered here—though these have been barred to Japan.

It's no easy job to pin down the Russians, but conversations along these general lines are proceeding.

NOTE—Despite Stalin's extreme ire at the Nazi-Japanese deal, it will not surprise U. S. observers if temporarily he pays lip service to the new setup or even flirts with a non-aggression pact—which, however, will be meaningless.

LEGION POLITICS

There was one piece of politics at the American Legion convention in Boston which did not leak out—some hot rivalry between two Republican groups.

the United States to be united—as states, sections and classes. And the hell of it is that right at this time, of all times, we must have political controversy mixed with war, racial and economic issues.

It will probably be easier to see straight and act wisely when this election campaign is over, no matter which side wins.

Meanwhile it may be profitable to keep in mind the old biblical observation: "How good and pleasant a thing it is for brethren to dwell together in unity."

After Your Bout With Hay Fever

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

● Hay fever is an intensive bout of allergy which lasts for about six to eight weeks. It leaves the victim weak and subject to sets of symptoms which hit the body in parts that are especially likely to allergic manifestations—the nose and the bronchial tubes.

One of these is post-seasonal hay fever asthma. With some of my patients the asthma used to come on at the end of the hay fever season and last until well along in the cold weather. Asthma is a most curious kind of a disease. What brings it on? All the subjects have stories to tell and they regard the condition with wonderment and awe. Three out of every four particularly mention that laughter brings on an attack," write Drs. June B. and Milton Cohen in their book Your Allergy and What to Do About It (J. B. Lippincott).

With a post-seasonal hay fever asthmatic, any exertion, even eating a meal, may set up an attack.

When in an attack, the asthmatic often assumes a position that looks very uncomfortable. "One person," relates Dr. Cohen, "who had suffered from chronic asthma for a number of years related that he had learned after weeks of practice to remain in one of these peculiar attitudes for at least an hour at a time without moving. The only way for him to drop off comfortably into his slumbers without the incidence of an asthmatic attack was to recline on his side, prop up his chest at an angle with his pillow and to hold up his hand with crooked elbow, using a silk handkerchief to prevent perspiration."

Seasonal hay fever runs incidentally into perennial or all-year-round hay fever. A young person had the usual bout with hay

BEFORE THE BLITZKRIEG

RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

"And, by the way, talking about risk, you'd better take this."

"It may do—but it's a damned tall order, my boy."

"Dare say—but I've dealt with tall orders before, in my time."

Gun laughed softly.

"So have I, I suppose. But this one seems a little different, or perhaps that's just my imagination."

"They can't do more than that: kill us, at the worst," Tommy grinned.

Gun said nothing, but inwardly he thought: "That's just it—they CAN, and if we fall they will."

They discussed the matter exhaustively until dinner time, and made a dozen plans, only to reject them again, or to hold them in reserve.

During the meal Tommy was in high spirits, and Gun had the greatest difficulty in stopping him from making some reference to the escape, which would almost certainly be heard through the microphone. He thanked the gods, too, that Trent and Otto would put his cheerfulness down to the fact that he was making progress with Coral. And this, Gun told himself, to have a map of the route, all the same. Now, you'll have to make them think that you're progressing well with Tommy here, and that by tomorrow you'll have him just where you want him. And they must believe that tomorrow night is the climax—that by the time you come back Tommy will be ready to do all that you—and they—want him to do."

Coral laughed.

"They won't love ME, will they?" Gun suddenly became grave.

"That's what I don't like about it—the danger to you."

"Don't be ridiculous. Should I be working for X if I was worried about danger?"

"I didn't say YOU were worried—I said I was."

"Just don't worry, then. Now, Tommy, I want you to drift into the bungalow with me, so that they can hear an affecting farewell between us. I could wish you were a better actor. So long, Gun!"

"So long, Coral! And—good hunting."

"Amen!"

Gun's eyes followed the pair across the lawn to the bungalow. He had heard men say that women were no good in offices, and that they were not capable of holding down executive jobs, or doing men's work. Coral might not be any good in an office, but she certainly could hold down a man's job, when it came to it.

The time passed quickly in discussing various plans for dealing with the situation. Gun remarked, "The job," Gun remarked, "is plain enough. One, we've got to get out of here. Two, we've got to deal with Otto and Trent. Three, we've got to destroy all the planes but one—that we shall need to get away in. Four, we've got to blow up the arsenal, and, if possible, destroy the factory. Five, we've got to take the plane and get away."

"Sounds good to me," grinned Tommy, rubbing his palms together delightedly.

Fullen-Millar Wedding Vows Are Exchanged

Home Of Bride's Parents Scene Of Ceremony

Before the fireplace in the living room of her parent's home, Miss Mary Elizabeth Millar of near Ashville exchanged nuptial vows with Mr. Kenneth E. Fullen of Cleveland Sunday at an informal wedding marked by the beauty of the arrangements. The Rev. H. D. Fudge of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of Ashville read the single ring service at 3:30 p. m.

Baskets of white gladioli and white pompons were on either side of the mantle shelf which was banked with Oregon huckleberry and ferns. Tall seven-branch cathedral candelabra with burning ivory tapers were on either side of the improvised altar, casting a soft glow over the wedding party. A profusion of ferns made a lovely background for the altar decorations. Ferns and Oregon huckleberry were twined about the wall lights and baskets and vases of roses were used throughout the rooms of the home.

A half-hour of nuptial music preceded the ceremony, Mrs. Everett Peters, cousin of the bride, singing "O Promise Me," "I Love You Truly," "All for You" and "At Dawning" with Miss Ruth Courtright playing the piano accompaniments. At the strains of the Lohengrin Wedding March, the bride approached the altar preceded by members of the bridal party.

For her wedding, Miss Millar, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Millar, chose an exclusive model of soldier blue with long sleeves and an all over scroll design of heart-shaped silver nail heads. Her only jewelry was a silver clip at the neck of her frock, the gift of the bridegroom. She wore a matching off-the-face hat, with small flaring veil. Her shoes were wine colored. For something old Miss Millar carried the dainty lace and linen handkerchief which her mother had carried at her wedding more than 28 years ago. A single pink orchid formed her shoulder corsage.

Miss Helen Spindler was maid of honor. Her lovely wine-colored frock was styled with bracelet length sleeves, the bodice being accented with short lengths of matching silk braid in a gorgeous design. A corsage of ivory gardenias was pinned at her shoulder. Mr. Lawrence Fullen served his brother as best man.

After an informal reception, a two course luncheon was served. The bride party was seated at a long table in the dining room set with crystal and silver. A three-tiered wedding cake on a silver platter topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom was surrounded with a garland of gardenias. This formed the centerpiece, silver candelabra guarding it on either side. When the cake was removed for serving with the dessert course, a lovely silver bowl of briarcliff roses replaced it. Following the luncheon, Miss Fullen presented her close girl friends with the gardenias from her wedding cake. The bride's gifts to Miss Spindler, Mrs. Peters and Miss Courtright were single strands of pearls.

Mrs. Millar received in grapevine silk crepe with matching shoes, and wore a shoulder corsage of white Killarney rose buds. Mr. Fullen, who is the son of Mr. Milton Fullen of Williamsport and the late Mrs. Fullen, is a stationery engineer at the Hawthornden State Hospital, Cleveland, where they will establish their home after the first of the year.

Leaving shortly after the lunch was served, the newlyweds are enjoying a wedding trip through the Smoky Mountain National Park to Asheville, N. C., and plan to return by the way of the Skyline Drive. For traveling, the bride wore a wine-colored dress with matching off-the-face hat and gloves, using black accessories. Her outfit was topped with a guppy tweed coat.

Mr. and Mrs. George Gerhardt of East Mound Street were among the guests at the wedding, those from a distance including Mr. and Mrs. Glen Riegel, Detroit, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. Victor Runkle, Mr. and Mrs. Robert George, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Byerly and Mr. Willard Riley of Lancaster; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Erniekiel, Miss Jane Erniekiel

UNPUBLISHED TUNES

Most famous orchestra leaders are identified by one particular song, not necessarily their themes. For instance, Tommy Dorsey's theme is "Sentimental Over You," but the song usually identified with him is "I'll Never Smile Again."

Written by Ruth Lowe, "I'll Never Smile Again" will be featured when Dorsey's new Fame and Fortune program makes its debut October 17, 8:30 p. m. NBC-Blue network. Dorsey's new half hour show will give unknown songwriters the same kind of break Dorsey gave Miss Lowe when he published her song for her and highlighted it frequently on his coast to coast program.

Today, less than six months old, "I'll Never Smile Again" has sold more than 400,000 sheet music copies and more than 200,000 phonograph records. Miss Lowe is rich from the proceeds of this one song. Dorsey plans to give this same opportunity to one person each week as long as his new sponsored program lasts.

"VALLEY FORGE"

Maxwell Anderson's "Valley Forge", the dramatic story of the struggles of George Washington and his ragged continentals to keep alive the spark of hope during the bitter winter of 1778, will be the second program in the new NBC-Red network on Wednesday.

"Valley Forge", prepared for radio by Pulitzer Prize Winner Anderson, will be on the air from 7:30 to 8:00 p. m.

John McIntire, one of the distinguished radio actors of the Cavalcade Players, the program's regular stock company, will be starred in the role of George Washington, created in the stage production by Philip Merivale. McIntire has been heard in many outstanding radio dramas, including several of last season's Cavalcade plays. This year he has been engaged as member of the Cavalcade Players.

Maxwell Anderson, one of America's most brilliant playwrights, wrote "Valley Forge" for production by the Theatre Guild in 1934. It was a smash hit on the New York stage, Anderson is the author of many other famous plays, including "What Price Glory", "Saturday's Children", "Elizabeth the Queen", "Both Your Houses", "Mary of Scotland" and "Winter-set". He also created a series of original radio plays for the National Broadcasting Company which won high praise from radio critics.

Carol Bruce, Ben Bernie's siren, is romeditating with Desi Arnaz. They say the time element is the only hitch in a radio deal featuring Al Jolson, Martha Raye and Bert Gordon.

CBS' Blondie studios look like an emergency ward this week with Tom McKnight and actor Bill Gay walking with canes because of sprained ankles incurred over the week-end, and pianist Earl Lawrence still on crutches—the result of an ankle broken several years ago when he stepped off an embankment at Laguna Beach.

Tommy Dorsey will play a one-night stand in Des Moines, Iowa Tuesday. He's working his way out to the coast where he begins his new "Fame and Fortune" series on October 17.

STARS SAY—

For Monday, October 7

Monday's astrological forecast is for an exceptionally lively and happy day in all concerning domestic, social, artistic and affectional relations. The latter particularly promises unusual interest, since frequently this aspect bespeaks courtship and marriage of most felicitous aspect. However, this high state of excitement and anticipation should not be negated by petty setbacks and annoyances nor married by impetuosity or other rash action. It is a day for youth to be joyous.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a most delightful year in the private relations—artistic, social, domestic and particularly in the emotional life. There is prospect of courtship or marriage of most felicitous and gratifying phase, although even this might be jeopardized by rash, hasty and tumultuous conduct. Refrain from sudden and impetuous acts should certain delays, obstacles or excess outlays of funds arise. These are trivial beside the joys indicated.

A child born on this day may be exceedingly clever and versatile, with much intellectual and artistic ability. It should make a brilliant success in any of the professions, as its creative gifts are supplemented by fine executive and organizing faculties.

About This And That In Many Sports

It's Groveport this week for the Circleville High Tigers, and from all indications—especially when you consider the game the locals played against Greenfield—the invaders will be tough. . . Coached by Johnny Montgomery, one of Ohio University's immortals of the last few years, the Groves are bound to be clever and fast. . . The Groveport record is not so hot, but the Red and Black will have to snap out of it a lot if a victory can come Circleville's way*

Chillicothe is having as much difficulty getting into the touchdown column as is the Circleville team. . . A Chillicothe meat market operator has gone so far as to offer a free ham to the first griddler who scores a touchdown. . . Like Circleville, Chillicothe has gone four games without crossing the white stripe. . . The Red Devils have tallied a field goal, though. . . Tiger athletes who were in the game when a dropkick was called Friday in the Greenfield game with McClain 12 points ahead explain the attempt this way: "We have been trying everything in an effort to score just once, thinking that a couple of points might break the spell" . . . But the boot failed, and the Tigers are still scoreless*

Comes some criticism and some praise from Lancaster. . . A Fairfield weekly takes Circleville's band to task for playing "The Star Spangled Banner," saying that Lancaster fans were forced to stand on makeshift bleachers that endangered them. . . To which ye janitor says "nertz". . . This is one of the highlights of pre-game activity at the school and Circleville fans are unanimous that Professor Zaenglein and his boys and girls continue to play the patriotic number. . . Another story in a Lancaster paper praised the equipment the Circleville boys have, putting special attention on the red windbreakers purchased for the squad by the Stooze Club. . . A Lancaster mother asks why Circleville can have such fine equipment while the Golden Gales do not have. . . The cost of the 20 jackets was about $100, the Stoozes adding this splendid gift to many others they have made to the school in the last few years*

REDSKINS AHEAD BY KEEPING GRID STANDING CLEAN

By International News Service
The Washington Redskins, unbeaten or untied, today held undisputed possession of the leadership in the National Professional League as the cash-and-carry season entered its sixth week.

The Redskins, the only team with a perfect slate in the pro loop, have beaten their most formidable opposition in the Eastern Division and seem almost certain of capturing the honors won last season by the New York Giants.

The only outfit that the Marshallmen haven't lauded to date are the Philadelphia Eagles, who have lost the only four engagements they have played.

Fullback Jimmy Johnston was the star in Washington's 40 to 10 triumph over the Pittsburgh Steelers yesterday, scoring three of the club's six touchdowns. Bob Seymour added two other tallies and End Al Millner scored one six-point.

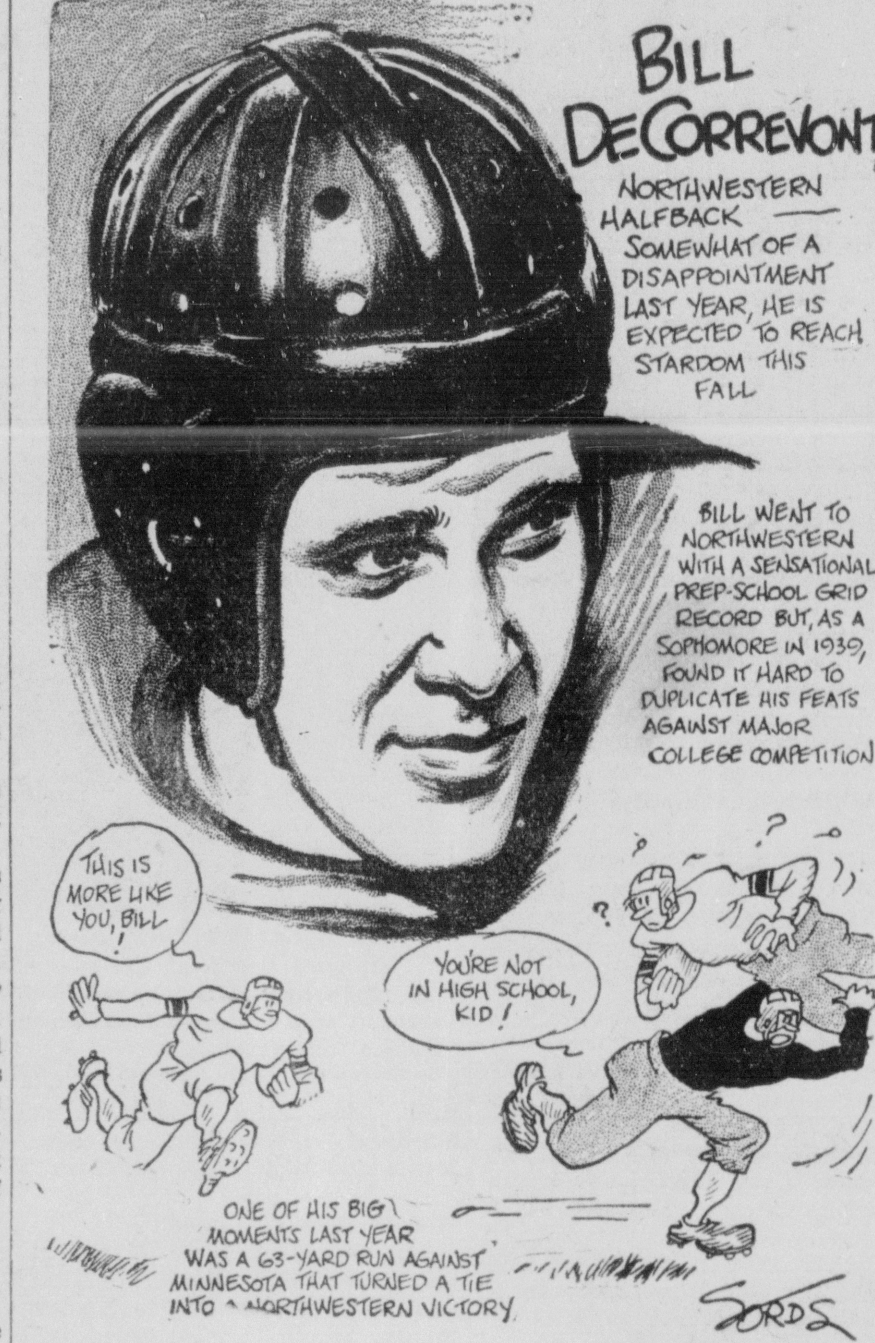

In the only other game yesterday the Chicago Bears staved off a last half attack to stop the Cleveland Rams, 21 to 14. The Bears scored twice in the first half, one touchdown being registered by George McAfee on a 14-yard run and the other on a one-yard plunge by Bernie Masterson.

The victory moved the Bears into a three-way tie with the Green Bay Packers and the Detroit Lions for first place in the Western Division.

The Lions moved forward after crushing the Chicago Cardinals, 43 to 14, in a game on Saturday night. Brooklyn took undisputed possession of second place in the eastern circuit by trouncing the Philadelphia Eagles 30 to 17 last Friday evening.

BULLS VICTORS, 23-13
NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Two intercepted passes and a 28-yard field goal by Jack Labay contributed to the Columbus Bulls' 23 to 13 victory over the New York Yankees which today gave them undisputed second place in the American Professional Football League.

Big Ten Teams Tangle With Stern Opposition

CHICAGO, Oct. 7.—Western Conference football teams, which have, with one noteworthy exception, been able to give a favorable account of themselves in intersectional encounters, will return to the wars this week end over a widespread front. Eight conference teams are billed for battle Saturday, while the ninth entry, the University of Minnesota, will be idle until October 19 when the Gophers clash with Ohio State.

Four Big Ten teams will engage in intra-conference competition, Ohio State, the defending champions and pace setters for the 1940 race, meeting Northwestern at Evanston, and Wisconsin and Iowa battling at Iowa City.

Michigan, after walloping California and eking out a victory over Michigan State on successive Saturdays, will give the Atlantic seaboard a close-up of the Wolverine football machine by going East to meet Harvard. Southern California, still in quest of its first 1940 victory, comes to the Midwest to line up against the University of Illinois at Urbana. The two Indiana units of the conference invade foreign fields, Purdue meeting Michigan State and Indiana playing Nebraska.

Northwestern, fresh from its 40-0 victory over Syracuse and taking some courage over the manner in which Purdue scared Ohio State last Saturday, faces a stiff assignment in tackling the Buckeyes. The Wildcat line is inexperienced and lacking in replacements and any notions of victory Coach Lynn Waldorf may have must essentially rest on his backfield.

Marquette Beaten
Wisconsin was able to defeat Marquette, 33-19, last Saturday by putting on a sensational third period rally, but the Badgers will be up against a test of no mean proportions this week when they meet Dr. Eddie Anderson's University of Iowa ball carriers. Iowa disposed of South Dakota Saturday, 46-0.

Purdue, in making an heroic stand against Ohio State last Saturday, lived up to advance expectations, and the Buckeyes were quite willing to call the whole thing off after snatching a 17-14 win. However, Michigan State forced the Michigan to the limit before the Wolverines won, 21-14, and the Boilermakers cannot look on the Spartan engagement as a breather.

Indiana's 13-6 loss to the University of Texas last Saturday was a keen disappointment to Hoosier followers, and the Hoosiers court trouble again this week against Nebraska. The Cornhuskers bowed by 13-7 to a strong Minnesota team last week end only after a hard tussle.

The other conference team, Illinois, won easily from Bradley, 49-0, in a game which was quite a painful sore feet.

BUCK NEWSOM'S PITCHING FEAT FEATURES PLAY

Big Bo Bo Receives Cheers From Every Spectator As He Blanks Redlegs

By Lawton Carver
CINCINNATI, Oct. 7.—The Detroit Tigers could win the World Series today behind Schoolboy Rowe against Bucky Walters, of the Cincinnati Reds, but regardless of whether they take it all today or blow this sixth game to be all even at the finish, nothing can happen now that will supersede the theatrics of yesterday. It must be years before the drama of that occasion will be matched for the 55,000 in the stands and the few who got into the Tiger clubhouse when it was all over. . . The crowd in Briggs Stadium, Detroit, saw Buck Newsom, the hereaved and solemn 200-pound fellow from Harsville, S. C., pitch one of baseball's great classics to shut out the Reds, 8 to 0, with three hits and seven strikeouts, putting the Tigers in front by three games to two for today's renewal here. Only a few saw him turn suddenly from hero to country boy who couldn't help but cry into his big wet pants. . . The girders in Briggs Stadium fairly trembled under the applause that was almost constant for the reiterated thrills of Bo Bo's side-arm pitches that seemed to come in via third base; his overhanders—his whistling fast balls, his curves and lobs and the rest, while he blew the Reds down in order in five of the innings and allowed only one of them to get as far as second base, as he won his second game of the series.

Work Beautiful
Anybody could appreciate the sheer physical beauty of the performance and everybody did. By the time he had got the first two men in a row in the ninth even the sparse Red population in the stands was on his side with Frank McCormick, the Reds' best and hardest hitter, at bat. One more and it was all over.

Bo Bo was a little weary by this time. A little weary of pitching and a little weary of puzzling over the vagaries of a life that gave him his greatest thrill last Wednesday when he won the opening game in his first World Series start, then brought to him his greatest sorrow—the death of his father only a few hours later, after his father had watched that triumph.

With McCormick up there eager to start a rally and do as much damage as possible even if the game did seem hopelessly lost, Bo Bo came in with a wide one for a ball, then McCormick fouled two off, got another ball and fouled another off.

Then the stands became so utterly still that the game might have been set in the middle of a South Carolina pine flat instead of before 55,000 onlookers. Newsom had said that he was pitching this one for his father. "And I hope he will be a-watching me," Buck had said.

Buck came in there with that Sunday pitch—his sidearm curve ball that seemed to blaze in from third base. McCormick swung so hard he nearly tore himself apart, and completed the games with a strikeout—Bo Bo's seventh.

The stillness was shattered by a demonstration the likes of which few men have known. There wasn't a completely unmoved person in the place, all the way up in the press box, high on the parapets overlooking the field. This ovation could have been the greatest moment in Newsom's life, and probably was, for he had joined the winners of two games in a single series, he had pitched a game that lacked little of being matchless, and he had put the Tigers in front again in baseball's most spectacular drama, the World Series.

Some persons seem to be unaffected by prolonged heavy gun fire; others are permanently deafened by a single detonation.

LARGE CROWD HEARS CINCINNATI MAN SPEAK AT LOGAN ELM

FAITH IN IDEALS NEEDED TO KEEP AMERICA FREE

Annual History Day Event
Attracts 1,400 Persons
To Historic Park

J. G. STEWART SPEAKS

Indian Chief On Program;
375 Automobiles Parked
At Event's Scene

By Austin Showman

"At a time like this, you and I should have a rebaptism of faith for the perpetuation of American ideals that the real American spirit might permeate throughout the Republic," James G. Stewart, mayor of Cincinnati, remarked Sunday before 1,400 persons crowded into the Logan Elm park grounds for Ohio's twenty-eighth History Day celebration. "If we do this," he continued, "no power on earth can destroy the United States of America."

Under a mid-afternoon sun, which drove a large portion of the audience into the shade of the historic elm tree, under which the peace treaty of Dunmore and Chief Logan was signed 166 years ago, Mayor Stewart delivered his address. He opened his talk by comparing the peace which surrounded the countryside with the turmoil in Europe. "We hope Americans will let no politicians lead them out of this state of existence," he said.

Reviewing briefly the history of the Northwest Territory, Mayor Stewart emphasized the significance of the location. He spoke of Chief Logan's treaty with Lord Dunmore, the conquest of Mad Anthony Wayne, the battle of Fallen Timbers and the treaty of Greenville in 1795.

Realize Freedom's Cause

"We have now begun to realize that this cause of freedom for which the Northwest Territory was dedicated, is not as safe as we had expected," he declared. He pointed to Germany as a nation in which persons were willing to surrender their individual rights for wild promises, and quoted Hitler as saying he could sow the seeds of unrest in America so that it would ultimately destroy itself.

"Hitler has a definite plan," he said, "and it is highly essential that you and I begin to think seriously about America as a nation."

He pointed out that America had always been a land of liberty and freedom of enterprise, where men of science might work unmolested by governmental restriction. But he criticized severely the hostility in America between nationalities, religious sects and rural and urban people. "If we cannot eliminate these hostilities," he said, "we cannot have an America worth defending."

To bring America back to its basic ideals of liberty, he proposed a spirit of friendly cooperation among its people, based on religious principals. Religious denominations must cooperate with each other, he declared, for "if those who believe in religion must quarrel among themselves, they will ultimately be destroyed by those who do not believe in it."

Preceding Mayor Stewart's address, John F. Carlisle, Columbus, vice-president of the Ohio History Day Association, made a few remarks about the famous elm tree. He said the tree was 500 years old, the oldest living thing east of the Mississippi river.

Indian Chief Present

Chief Winneshiek, a member of the Winnebago tribe, a graduate of Carleton University, a football teammate of the famous Jim Thorpe, and a member of Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd's second Antarctic expedition, followed Mayor Stewart on the patriotic program. Chief Winneshiek related the legend of the origin of the pine tree, a story of an Indian boy whose deeds were so noble that he volunteered to be turned into a pine tree, and because of his noble character, became the tallest and straightest tree in the forest. Chief Winneshiek called on all Ameri-

Austrian Safe

FOR the second time in his life, Prince Rudiger von Starhemberg, one-time vice chancellor of Austria, narrowly missed death at German hands when an air bomb demolished a house next to the London residence the prince now occupies. The prince fled for his life when Germany seized Austria more than two years ago.

WOMAN'S HEAD HURT IN MISHAP ON RURAL ROAD

Mrs. Elliott Webb, Route 2, Circleville, was taken to Berger Hospital Saturday night where she was treated for head injuries after the automobile in which she was riding went out of control on Route 56, west of Circleville.

Deputy Sheriff Bryan Custer, who investigated the accident, said Elliott Webb, the driver, told him he had lost control of the car as he attempted to turn into a lane at the Robert Perkins farm. Riding in the car with Mr. and Mrs. Webb were their two children, Emma Gene, 14, and Edgar, 11. Neither was injured.

Five Circleville High School youths escaped injury Saturday afternoon as they were returning from the Ohio State-Purdue football game when the Mercury car driven by Harry Junior Clifton, Pinckney Street, struck the rear of another car in a line of traffic near the Mackey Ford Road.

The front of the Clifton car was damaged. City police made no traffic arrests over the week-end, although traffic on Routes 22 and 23 was reported to be heavy. Ten persons were arrested Saturday night on drunk and disorderly charges.

cans to adopt the pine tree as a symbol of true character.

"If you have a character as straight as a pine tree, the American Constitution will survive," he said.

James Ernhart, 94, of Lebanon, completed the program by reciting the message of Logan to Lord Dunmore.

Among those introduced during the celebration were Dr. and Mrs. Howard Jones, of Circleville. Officers of the Ohio History Day Association are Mrs. Howard Jones, Circleville; John F. Carlisle, Columbus; and Mrs. Helen Anderson, Mrs. Anna Chandler and M. E. Noggle, of Circleville.

Officials at the gate estimated there were 375 automobiles on the grounds during the celebration.

BIG DRAFT JOB STILL PENDING

Many "Must" Tasks On
Slate; Local Boards
Must Be Named

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—With only eight working days until registration day, draft officials today still faced a long list of "must" tasks before the monumental job of registering 16,500,000 young Americans for possible military service can be accomplished.

Major unaccomplished jobs were:

1. Appointment and instruction of more than 25,000 registrars who will conduct the actual work of signing up all men between the ages of 21 and 35 on October 16.

2. Completion of distribution of registration cards and duplicates, which must be in the hands of registrants before the men can be listed.

3. Appointment of the 6,500 local draft boards (and attending physicians) which will receive the cards and number the registrants. Draft officials announced that these appointments will be made this week by the president on recommendations from state governors.

4. Naming of a national director of selective service. Draft officials declare they are being handicapped by lack of any official with complete authority.

5. Completion of the voluminous official regulations which will govern the draft. Only two of six volumes of these have so far been issued.

Once registration is completed, the draft machinery must move into high gear to meet army requests that the first 75,000 men actually be in uniform by early next month.

In order to accomplish this, arrangement must be made for the national lottery which will determine the order in which the men will be called; the local boards must be completely instructed as to classifications, and the lengthy classification blanks must be mailed to the registrants, filled out, and returned.

Indicative of the speed motif was the announcement that the local boards—described as "the backbone of the whole system"—will be named as soon as possible. These local boards must then designate and instruct the registrars, and get ready to receive the registration cards.

He was a son of Milton and Mary Pontius Heffner. Surviving are his widow, Tella Hamilton Heffner and three children, Mildred, Helen and Glenn Franklyn, all at home.

The funeral was conducted Monday at 2 p. m. at the home. Rev. Harold Dutt of Stoutsville officiating with burial in Prairie View Cemetery. Whisler, by the Deffenbaugh Funeral Home. Washington Merry-Go Round

Assistant Secretary of War under Coolidge, headed the Republican Service League up until recently. It was his job to rally Legion votes for Republicans.

However, the Republican Service League was recently ousted out from under MacNider and put under Harry Colmery, former commander of the American Legion.

And at Boston, Colmery opened Willkie headquarters at the Statler Hotel. This was the first time that a Legion convention had been used openly to boost one political candidate, and considerable resentment was expressed, much of it coming from the friends of Hanford MacNider. Democrats stood on the sidelines and grinned.

COPPER COPPERED

It hasn't been publicly announced, but the big copper moguls have assured the Defense Commission there will be no price kiting on this vital raw material.

The promise was not entirely voluntary. It followed some pointed prodding.

With defense production swinging into full stride, copper recently began showing signs of zooming skyward. Overnight there was a half-cent jump to 12 cents a pound.

To Defense Commissioner Leon Henderson, whose job is to police prices, this restiveness was unwarranted. He had a confidential dossier on copper containing certain interesting facts. One of them was that while the U. S. Government was being charged 12 cents a pound, large quantities were being sold to Japan at less than 10 cents.

Another was that the U. S. copper producers were protected by a 4-cent tariff and that plenty of copper could be obtained as well under 12 cents if this tariff wall were leveled.

So Henderson "invited" the copper chiefs to Washington. They came, among them C. F. ("Con") Kelley, head of giant Anaconda Copper. The conference was amicable, but Henderson nipped no words.

He said that the Defense Commission wanted to keep the domestic market intact for domestic producers, but that the Commission would not hesitate to buy elsewhere if any profiteering were attempted. Also, that he knew where there was plenty of cheap copper and that the 4-cent tariff could be junked by an executive order.

The copper officials did not resist. They agreed to keep prices in check; asked only that future orders be so timed and spaced as to enable them to operate steady production schedules.

SCRAP OVER SCRAP

Equally vital iron and steel

scrap is next on Henderson's list. With defense demands mounting by leaps and bounds, scrap prices have been tugging at the leash. Since exports are barred to Japan, Henderson sees no reason for any price hurdling, so this week he has summoned both dealers and users for a private talk.

As in the case of copper, the Defense Commission knows where there are large, readily accessible supplies of scrap, and Henderson will make it clear to the dealers that if they want to retain the domestic market they will have to keep prices within bounds.

Note—Behind the scenes, Henderson's adviser in these matters is astute Bernard Baruch, head of the World War Industries Board.

ON THE BATTLEFRONT

REPS: The Hatch Act certainly is having effect. Representative Dudley White of Ohio, who heads the GOP speakers' bureau for the 31 states under the jurisdiction of the Chicago campaign headquarters, has been allotted only enough money to pay the expenses of 100 speakers for a week and a half.

Formerly the National Committee paid both salary and expenses. Most speakers were kept on the stump for at least a month. But with a ceiling put on campaign expenditures by the Hatch law, the committee is holding outlays down to the bone. There will be no salaries for speakers. They will have to be volunteer workers and expenses will cover only a week and a half of touring.

DEMS: Democratic Townsendites on Capitol Hill are boiling mad at Dr. Francis Townsend's endorsement of Wendell Wilkie. They are his strongest supporters, and his move puts them in an embarrassing hole, since they are running on the third-term ticket which he condemned.

Feeling is so hot that they have served notice on Townsend privately that they won't lift a finger to get action on his long-pending pension scheme. Some are even threatening to withdraw their names from the discharge petition, to bring the bill to a vote, after the election is over. Townsend talks big in his weekly about his potency in Congress, but the real inside is that he swings very little weight.

The Townsend organization still carries political authority in some districts, but the "old Doc" himself has lost much influence in Congress in the last two years. Some Townsend insiders are predicting that after November 5, he will be booted "upstairs" and a more politically deft front man put in his place.

Note—For more than a month, Townsend, in his weekly, has implied that his bill was on the verge of a vote. Actually it is buried in committee and has no chance of being brought up for a vote.

GET A ROOF THAT CAN

"Take it!"

MOST roofs have been leaking for 3 or 4 years before the damage reaches the stage where water marks show on the plaster.

Once the damage reaches that stage, the cost of repairs to plaster and household articles is always more than what it would have cost to have re-roofed in time.

Here's a simple test you yourself can make: after the next hard rain, go up in your attic and look at the roof-boards. If they are wet in spots, watch out for leaks sooner or later. To be completely safe against leaks, you should have your home re-roofed at once.

Logan-Long Asphalt Shingles are best for re-roofing. They are applied right over the old roof quickly and economically. We will be glad to show you these tested and approved asphalt shingles without obligation.
